A website image alluding to 'The Winter King' to mark Bernard Cornwell's birthday.

1. I started with a crown from the Google warehouse

2. Changed some materials in Kerythea
- here the main material is ice-like.

3. The ice wasn't robust enough
This is gold -- too strong.

4. Merged them in the Gimp and used a mask render from KT to add a snowy backdrop.

5. Still looks a bit hard (the model has sharp edges), used an Alien Skin plugin in Xara Xtreme to create an impasto version.

6. Merged these two together and tweaked a little more in Xara.